

Cupola Gallery

This room is a hall that goes from Fausto's suite to the one where Giuseppe lived with his wife, Carolina.

On the table there are really beautiful vases called “amphoras.” Can you see the handles, how they are made? If you look carefully, you’ll recognize the animals... what are they?

These amphoras were only pretty to look at. They were never filled with water or wine, because they would be too heavy. If you tried to lift them by the handles, they would break for sure.

Answer: snakes

On the table in front of the vases, there is a “travel writing box”... do you know what that is? It’s a kind of little desk that you can take with you when you go on trips. You can put everything in them that you need to write a letter.

Before going ahead, go into the little room on the right... you can find a lot of things that belonged to the Bagatti Valsecchi family. Go be nosey! You can open drawers and thumb through photographs!
